Strengthening Victoria's Multiculturalism by introducing other religions' prayers and non-religious reflections

Dear Minister,

The Rationalist Society of Australia has for many years called for a change to the tradition of reciting the Lord's Prayer at each sitting of parliament.

While the vast majority of Australians used to identify as Christian - some 90% in the 1950s - this is no longer the case. Now, only about 60% identify as Christian, with about 32% reporting no religion or not stating a religion and about 7% affiliating with other religions. Clearly the Australia of the 21st century is not the same as the Australia of Federation.

It is no longer fair nor appropriate for the prayer of a single religious tradition to dominate the formal proceedings of the people's parliament.

Victoria's fine example of strong and effective multiculturalism could be strengthened by introducing the prayers of other religions and non-religious reflections in addition to the Lord's Prayer. I attach an example of what could be used by way of a non-religious reflection.

As Minister for Multicultural Affairs, will you support this move?

Sincerely,

Dr Meredith Doig

About the Rationalist Society of Australia Inc.

The RSA is the oldest freethought group in Australia, promoting reason since 1906. Members and supporters hold that all significant beliefs and actions should be based on reason and evidence, that the natural world is the only world there is, and that answers to the key questions of human existence are to be found only in that natural world. We seek to stimulate freedom of thought, support a secular and ethical system of education, promote the fullest possible use of science for human welfare, and encourage interest in science, criticism and philosophy as connected factors in a progressive human culture.

Dear Dr Doig,

The Minister for Finance has forwarded your email regarding the Lord's Prayer to me for a response.

The beginning of each sitting of the Legislative Assembly is preceded by the reciting of the Lord's Prayer. This has its origins in a motion passed by the House in 1928 to that effect. It is for the House to determine whether or not this practice should be changed.

Dear Steve Palmer,

Thank you for responding to my letter of 17 April regarding prayers before sittings of the Victorian parliament. I note you referred my letter to the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly and Clerk of the Parliaments, whose subsequent letter referred the matter back to the House.

Respectfully, this is an unacceptable response.

Firstly, the Minister has not responded to the question in my letter.

Secondly, your attempt to pass accountability for a policy decision from the Minister to an administrative servant of the Parliament is reminiscent of a "Yes Minister" scenario, a potentially endless cycle of exhausting referral and counter referral.

I therefore ask again that the Minister respond to my question: "As Minister for Multicultural Affairs, will you support this move?" where "this move" refers to introducing prayers of other religions and non-religious reflections in addition to the Lord's Prayer.

Dear Dr Doig

Thank you for your correspondence dated 23 April 2015 regarding prayers before sittings of the Victorian Parliament.

As previously communicated to you by my Chief of Staff, the administrative nature of both Houses of Parliament are the responsibility of the Presidents of each House.

On a personal note, I currently support Standing Order 4.02 but if the House in the future determines that the Standing Order should be changed to better reflect Victoria's multiculturalism, then I, like all members of Parliament, will consider this amendment.

Thank you again for taking the time to write to me.

Yours faithfully
